Mr Ryan will keep the Manhattan Mouse for the accommodation of Clubs and Parties. The best wines and Liquors will be furnished from his cellar, having been carefully selected from the best stocks in Boston, a large portion of them being of the celebrated stocks long in the cellar of Mr Gallegher, late of the Exchange Coffee House. Rooms will be furnished for References and Courts Martial. Transient and permanent boarders will be accommodated in the best style known in the country; and elegant anartments will be let, with or without board.

The Table diffet will be supplied with every deligance. Mr Ryan will keep the Manhattan Bouse for the accommo or without board.

The Table d'Ilote will be supplied with every delicacy of the various seasons. Breakfasts, Dinners and Suppers, of every description, will be served at short notice, and various Soups will be ready every day from eleven to three. Mr kyna is confident that in this department, his own experience, allocated by skill of the persons completed as cuisiniers, will an is consident that in this department, his own experience, added to the skill of the persons employed as cuisiniers, will enable him to please the most fastidious epicures, both in respect to quality and style.

Those friends who have known the character of Mr Ryan's

House in Boston, he is assured, will find his accommodations better, his means more ample, and his dil gence quite as untiring; and from such strangers in this city, as love excellence in the various departments of his profession, he would beg the favor of an early call, with the full hope of giving satisfaction.

BIF House was opened on the 15th June, 1837. eptf je17

HE most safe, effectual and economical remedy for diseases of the Human Constitution, that has ever been dis-

These Pills are composed entirely of materials extracted from Medical Plants, and are warranted not to contain the particle of mercury, or any mineral substance. Dr Kingley, the inventor of this valuable medicine, from his knowledge of the Human System, derived from a long and extensive gractice, has arrived to the conclusion, that the great and primary cause of most diseases is a derangement in the functions of the liver; or, in other words, an increased or diminished secretion of the Bile.

So well is fins understood, that it is common for persons to say when they feel unwell, that they are billious, meaning that they have too much bile in the stomach. On the other hand, when the flow of bile is diminished, the process of diagostion is imperfectly performed, the patient becomes weak and emaciated, because nourishment contained in the food taken into the stomach is not properly extracted, and the tood is ejected in a crude state. Dr Kingley is confident that the famous Hygelan Theory, so called, that is impurity of the blood is a secondary, not a primary complaint—the effect and not the cause of diseases. When the functions of the liver are deranged, and the flow of bile increased, it is often taken up by the absorbent vessels and curried into the circulation, and becomes mingled with the blood as in Janudice, when the patient shows it in his countenance. Now this impurity of the blood is caused by an increased flow of the bile, and to remedy it you must correct the secretion of the iver, and restore it to a healthy state.

Dr Kingley has spent much time in experimenting with different vegetable medicines, for diseases of the liver, and now offers his Universal Family Pills as the bast, most convenient and cheapest medicine that can be prepared for general use; and in offering them to the public, he is actuated more hybenevolent then pecuniary motives, as the pice of the medicine will show.

Dr Kingley flatters himself that his long experimenting with the second content of the public in the discover the resear

POETRY.

THE SISTERS. MINA - First Sister.

Sister, shall we dance to day? Round my waist thy white arms twine, Turn thy rosy cheek my way,

Let thy bright hair mix with mine; Those soft curls of sunny hue Have our golden fish's dye, And those eyes of tender blue Are the colour of the sky. 'Tis our mother plays so sweet, Trip it with thy fairy feet.

MILLICENT -- Second Sister. Sister, I would lead thee fain-

To our arbour, cool and fair; I have made a daisy chain For thy glossy, flaxen hair; Blue as violets thine eye, And thy cheek, all downy, glows Like the snow-white butterfly, When it settles on a rose.
Follow, where our fountain showers
Drops of silver midst the flowers.

Both Sisters.

Listen! 'tis our mother calls, See, she glides amongst the trees, Round her many a blossom falls, Scattered by the fanning breeze.

We will steal by yonder mound When she stops to rest at last; Then we'll reach her at a bound, And our arms shall hold her fast: Mother, to thy bosom prest! Say which sister loves thee best !

Mr Pickwick—"As I vas a comin down street this mornin', a thinkin', of my mother-in-law, and the old 'un, and the shepherd, a big loafe vent to shoot a little hinnocent dog, right afore my face. AN APPEAL TO THE DOG KILLER.

Loafer, spare that dog! Touch not a hair or limb! In youth he fought for me, And now I'll fight for him, What injury doth he, That in his fated head, The Mayor's stern decree Must lodge a junk of lead?

My old and faithful dog, Whose name and wide renown Have frightened many a rogue;
And would'st thou shoot him down? Leafer! thy wrath forbear! Let Honesty go free— Though mad, he would beware Of such a thing as thee.

When but an idle boy, Often with him I roved; In all their gushing joy,
Him, too, my sisters loved;
And him my brothers dear, The fond caress would give. Loafer! who sent thee here? Go! let that old dog live! My heart-strings round thee cling,

SENTENCES ON SOCIETY.

As distance lessens to the eye, when looking over the sea or a wide heathy scene, in which there is no variety to break the prospect, so in advancing years, when sensation becomes dull and life has little novelty to offer, time appears to fly with a velocity fearfully increased.

Present times always appear of far greater relative importance than they actually are. Any given twenty years might be taken from the last two hundred, and good special reasons be urged for considering them the most important of the whole period. This mistake, however, has the good effect of inducing multitudes to take an interest in politics, which they would not otherwise icel. Just as a man would hasten to assist in extinguishing what he thought a s cond "fire of London," who would hear apathetically of a common conflagration half a mile off.

The third friend in a conversation-putting lovers out of the question-is as eminently useful as the third leg of The sub-criber, having taken the room. People are not generally aware how much actual falsehood they atter by merely exaggerating the truth. A boasting traveller once asserted that he had been run over [Satinets.] by an elephant, without receiving the least damage. On being cross questioned as to this marvel, he backed out by raying, "Well, it it was not an elephant, I am sure it was a flea. You have only to look at the flea through a microscope, and you'll find a wonderful similarity between my being run over."

BOSTON MORNING POST.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1837.

Elementary Instruction. An Address delivered before the Schools and the Citizens of the town of Quincy, July 4th, 1837. By Charles Brooks, Minister of the Third Church, Hingham. Quincy .-Printed by John A. Green.

There are many very good things in this address, and it is worthy of perusal on this account, if on no other. The author's object is to show by what means we must preserve the institutions which our fathers established. And this end can be accomplished, he thinks, only by making adequate provisions for the elementary instruction of shildren and youth. He cannot be said to have develope a system of public education, but he has advanced many hints which may be useful for the purpose of improving our present system. In order to bring into action the principles which he has explained, he thinks that there ought to be a class of purposely prepared teachers, that we ought to make a profession of this high duty of instruction and give it a corresponding support. This is all very reasonable. Schoolmasters, who are competent to their task ought, not only in justice to their own merits, but for the good of the rising generation, to be well paid for their services. Yet it is notorious that they receive, as a class, the poorest compensation of all the professions. So long as this state of things exists, men of talents and learning will refuse to drudge in the businesss of instruction, while they can obtain wealth in other lines of business. Every man, who has ever kept a school, is aware, that though he is confined but six or seven hours per day, his mind is so fatigued, through the exercise of his patience, that he sis unfitted to pursue any other business, during his leisure hours. Hence, a Schoolmaster's compensation ought to be sufficient to induce him to devote himself exclusively to the business of instruction, or young men will resort to the profession only as a temporary means of gaining a livelihood, and of course cannot properly discharge its duties. We recommend Mr B's address as affording many important hints on the subject of our foregoing remarks.

Flowers .- It is very common with men who think there is nothing rational that is not connected with dollars and cents, to ridicule the study of flowers. "What good can come out of it?" they ask-"will it improve a man's fortune, or increase his stock of useful knowledge? Will it render him a shrewder calculator-will it earn him his bread or make him a fortune ?" Grant that it will accomplish none of these useful purposes-it ought to be encouraged-though regarded merely as an amusement, out of which no evils can arise. They are very greatly mistaken who believe that no actual utility, in the common niggardly sense of the term, can be derived from the study of botany-but setting all this aside, we would encourage the study, as tending to fill up many hours of idlene's with an interesting and agreeable pursuit. Every new amusement that is discovered which can be participated without any danger to the health or the morals, provides an additional means for the moral improvement of society, inasmuch as it serves to divert many minds from pleasures and entertainments which are liable to be accompanied with vice. Though to a mere plodder in the common business of life, it may seem almost ridiculous, to be engaged with enthusiasm in naming and preserving a few insignificant wildflowers, yet this very zeal may preserve many a youth from corruption and rain, whose parsions might otherwise lead him to seek for amusement in the haunts of dissipation and vice. Every amusement is useful, if it is innocent-since everything is useful which contributes to one's happiness without bringing with it an equal amount of evil to one's self or others . There arevery many pursuits, which are useful in no other way than by contributing to our pleasures. Let plodding misers and conceited sensualists ridicule them, because they neither fill one's coffers, nor spread his tables-we would answer them by saying that the most distinguishing mark between men and brutes is that the latter pursue only the useful, while the former are about equally busied in the pursuit of the fanciful.

Fashions .- When large sleeves were first introduced, every one made himself merry by ridiculing them. They were an eye-sore to the whole community; and every lady excused herself by saying that she did not go to the extreme of the fashion! During the last year, tight sleeves have become fashionable, and now, indeed, almost everybody is ridiculing them, and comparing them disadvantageously with the preceding fashion. The truth is, we are a; t to like any fashion which our eyes have become accustomed to, and to despise every other. We have no doubt that even a broad waist might, by certain circumstances of custom, be made an acknowledged model of beauty. We shall not quarrel with the ladies, but allow them to dress according to their own taste.

We pity the love-sick condition of the Western Bachelor, who indited the following paragraph in the Knickerbocker:-"The lips of one's sweet-heart are a volume of poetry. Smiles fling a ray, like the blush of the morning upon them, and they are glorious in their brightness. They are an oracle, and from them comes the voice of destiny .-They are a shrine, and around them the breath of inspiration ever lingers. It would be vain to talk of kissing any thing so sacred, when the mere thought overwhelms one in unspeakable bliss !" The New York Butchers practice sad tricks upon their customers-(it will do no harm to look pretty sharp after Boston butchers) -here is a specimen of their manœuvres, as described by Bennett:-"They blow meat, they stuff ment, and they plate meat. But some will ask what is blowing meat, plating meat, and stuffing meat? Let us explain. When a batcher kil's an animal which looks very flat, scant, or sunken in its internal arrangements, he introduces a quill under certain parts of the skin, and blows his own nasty breath into the orifice, until the animal assumes a plump and fine appearance; this is called blowing, and is mostly practiced upon veal and lamb. To stuff meat, is to take the super-fluous fat of one very fat animal, and thrust it in behind the kidneys, and other parts of a lean animal, until the latter looks like rich fat meat. To plate meat, is to take the call, or other portions of the fat of a fat beast, and diess over or plate a lean one, by sp cing the fat dextrously upon the different parts of the latter, and thus deceive the buyers in regard to the quality of the meat they pur-The fat of one animal generally being found sufficient to plate three lean ones. A writer in Capt. Marryatt's Metropolitan, mentions as one of the national psculiarities of the Yankees, their custom of calling their wives, their "old women."

Washington, Sept. 18, 1837.

Whilst I am writing this note the Hon John C. Calhoun is addressing the Senate, on subjects connected with the leading features of the Administration, and it is needspeech will, for good or for evil, remove the somewhat mysterious veil that has for the last two or three weeks enveloped his actions and given rise to a deal of gossip and speculation. I shall not anticipate the South Carolinian, and for a key to his movements shall refer you to his own avowed and undisguised revelations.

Mr Clay has for the last ten days watched Mr Calhoun with an intensity of feeling that he could not disguise. He had hoped, as it is believed, that he would be enabled to form a coalition with the Carolina Senator, but that hope was baffled and destroyed a week since. A few days since, a gentleman attached to your delegation, met Mr Clay in the Senate bibly, and inquired of him if he supposed that Calhoun and Preston would sustain the measures recommended by the President! Sustain them! O no, replied Harry; I am surprised that any one should think so. The gentleman left him, and as he was quitting the Senate Chamber, he was called back by Mr Clay, who said to him-" I would like to qualify the reply I made to you-it is not improbable that Mr Calhoun will go for the measures advanced in the Message, but as for Preston, I know he will not, for he this day told me that he should stand by the opposition."

It was on that very day, a few minutes after the conversation I have reported was had, that a distinguished nullifier, who professes to be the organ of the "Southern Party," said to me-" Well, we have lost Preston. He has left us, and goes for Clay." "Goes for Clay!" said 1; "praysir, what do you mean?" " Mean! why, I mean to say that Clay is to be a candidate for the Presidency, and Preston will follow him." At that instant, and before the last syllable had cooled on the lips of the nullifier, Mr Clay came in at the side door of the Representatives' Hall, followed by Preston! "There, there," said the nullifier, " see them-there they are, Damon and Pythiascan you doubt any longer?"

I relate this little incident to you, not because I attach any importance to it, but, because I am disposed to show you how much jealousy and suspicion are to be found among the political circles of Washington. Such things will be "on board of big ships," and we cannot help it. I do not "religiously believe" that Mr. Clay is to be a candidate for the Presidency, nor do I imagine that William C. Preston intends to follow him.

It is very possible that Mr. Clay did some two months since think that the Presidency was worth striving for; but, since the attitude of Mr. Calhoun has been what it now is, it is more than probable, that he has abandoned that way of thinking.

From a source to be relied on, I learn that Mr. Clay, a few days ago, received a letter from a body of citizens residing in Pennsylvania, soliciting him to become a candidate for the Presidency. That in reply Mr. Clay said, that he had always been of opinion, that the citizen was bound to yield compliance to all the reasonable requests of the people; but, that he was now satisfied that there was not a reasonable prospect of success, and therefore he felt himself constrained to decline being a candidate for the Chief Magistracy. This conclusion to say the least of it, has something of prudence to commend it.

Since I commenced writing this note, the Hon. John C. Calhoun has concluded his remarks in the Senate, and the amount of them I forwarded you by express mail. It is scarcely necessary to add, that he went for the doctrines set forth in Mr. Van Buren's Message.

Yours, &c. CONSIDER STANDISH.

The Democratic State Convention, which assembled at Worcester on the 20th inst., was one of the most numerous and respectable bodies of the kind ever convened in this Commonwealth. It was organised by the choice of the Hon. GAYTON P. OsGOOD as President, and Messrs J. K. Simpson, Harvey Chapin, Seth Whitmarsh, and as candidates for the offices of Governor and Lieutenant Governor, and after an Address and Resolutions had been adopted, and some other business relative to the organization of the party transacted, the Convention was dissolved. As soon as the official proceedings can be prepared we shall lay them before our readers; we do not expect to receive them for some days, however, in consequence of their great length.

A feeling of harmony, union, and unshaken confidence in the ultimate success of democracy in the "Bay State," pervaded the Convention and characterised its proceedings. There was no division of sentiment upon any of the political questions of the day which came upthe President's Message received the unanimous approbation of all present, and every one appeared anxious to see the principles it proclaimed carried out to their full extent. Mr Osgood's address on taking the Chair, was an elequent and manly avowal of his opinions on some of the principal political topics of the day, and was received adopted by the Convention, we risk nothing in saying, en pots of the Society-the ladies throng the rooms; the will be read with eathusiastic pleasure by every democrat in Massachusetts. For purity of style, cogency of argument, and power and beauty of thought, it is not equalled by a. similar paper which has appeared for many years. The innocence and sweetness of a flower, and a sensitive, re-Resolutions, too, we think, will meet with equal favor, fined and modest maiden, which makes them "love one and the whole proceedings result in strengthening the good another." cause they were intended to aid, and in facilitating the redemption of our beloved State from the thraldom of federalism.

The New York Daily News gives us the following article upon the Maine election. Let the junketing federal whigs reflect upon it over their flowing beakers:-

" Maine Election .- There is much exultation in the ranks of the opposition at the recent election in Maine, and a thousand guns are to be fired in Boston, to celebrate the joyous event. Young politicians seem to be surprised of Poems, by Mr Isaac C. Pray, Jr. It is printed in himself in Jackson, Ind., on the 1st. that so great a change has taken place in a State which has been for several years democratic; but they do not recollect that Maine, in every time of pressure or panic, has been driven into the ranks of the opposition. This was the case during the embargo, the non-intercourse, and the war, and no marvel that it is so now Maine is essentially a commercial State, and all its interests are more or less connected with trade. Besides, Maine is up to its chin in speculation in lands, timber, granite, lots, &c., and so much is it embarrassed by debt, that any change which is made, they are disposed to consider it for the better. We are not able to understand where they have obtained so many votes at this election, as there is very little diminution in the number of democratic votes. Perhaps our opponents may be able to explain the cause of this great increase of votes in that State.

In the House .- Mr. Adams, of Mass., asked leave to offer a resolution, which was read as follows:

Resolved, That the power of annexing the people of an independent foreign State to this Union is not delegated to Congress, nor to the Executive, nor to any department of the Government, but is reserved to the people. Of jections being made, Mr. A. moved that the rule be suspended, and asked the Yeas and Nays thereon, which were refused, and the motion to suspend was rejected.

Mr. Patton offered a resolution, calling upon the President for all the correspondence relative to the withdraw-al of Gen. Scott from his command in Florida, and the ubsequent court martial, &c. Lies over one day.

Mr. Wise offered a resolution for the appointment of a Joint Committee by ballot, with power to send for perons and papers, to investigate the causes of the disasters and expenses of the Fiorida war.

The bill to postpone the 4th instalment was taken up; and Mr. Bell spoke at length on the subject, and was still son, Hewins, and Hauptman-consisting of likenesses and on the floor, when the express mail closed.

We were much pleased with a "repeating rifle" invented by Mr Chamberlain of this city. We think Mr C. has obviated in the construction of his rifle, the hitherto great objection to repeating, or many chambered fire arms, by the construction of a lever and key, in such a manner as to force the chamber so firmly against the foot of the barrel, at each discharge, as to prevent the possibility of communication and consequent explosion of the charges one with another. DHELPS'S ARCANUM .- For the cure of the wors diseases of the skin, ulcerous sores, scrofula or king's evil, syphilitic and mercurial diseases, rheumatism, white lected medical treatment, and all those whose lungs and chest age diseased by remote causes in the system.

The Arcanum has proved itself by versiof experience far superior in its effects to the Panacea of Swaim Catholicon o. Potter, or the French Robs. In testimony of the above statement, we refer to the opinion of Dr Saail L. Mitchell, of New York, Dr Jones of Baron Rouge, Dr Archer et Virginia, Dr Gedman of Pailade plus, who have investigate, the properties and efficacy of the article, and affirmed it as being superior to all medicines in their knowledge, for the removal of the decrease above named. Price $2 per bottle. the diseases above named. Price $2 per bottle.

Boylsten, Mass. Aug. 1st, 1835.

In the year 1850 I requested Dr Phelps to visit a daughter finine, aged about 15 years, having a distortion of the spine one, and whose general health had always been fee.

he curvature of the spine, at that time, had acquired a hopeless and singularly disfigured appearance, and the Stern im or breast bone corresponded with the distortron, presentng to the beholder a deformity calculated to excite the deepest sympathy. From the first appearance of this disease, 1 had solicited the most skilful of the profession, whose attendance, various prescriptions and remedies were unattended with success or benefit—in a word, the progressive march of the disease bid defiance to the ingenuity of skill, and thepowe er of medicine.

It was under these circumstances that we commenced the

It was under these circumstances that we commenced the use of the Arcanom, which was perseveringly administered for several months. Her general health soon began to improve, and the progress of the disease was gradually arrested by this medicine only, and the use of the salt water bath.

From this period, her strength and energies of mind and body were evidently improving, and the deformity has subsided with the growth of years. At this time, which is more than five years since, we adopted the treatment of Dr Phelps, my daughter is in the enjoyment of good health, to our astonishment and admiration. She has been a teacher or instructress for two years past.

M. DAVENPORT.

The great demand for the Arcanom, and its remarkable ef-and the best recommendation which can be offered to those who are unacquainted with it.

Extract of a letter received from a gentleman in Boston, who had suffered severely from ladigestion for three years. 'During this time, I suffered very much from mental depression, constant pain in the head and breast, and side, sharp shooting painover almost the whole system—the food that I are seemed to over almost the whole system—the lood that I are seemed to pass into my lungs and there remain, giving me great pain as tended with a strong degree of heat. At times, I suffered so much from the pain of indigestion as to be confined to the bestor two or three days. During one of these most severe attacke I was induced by the advice of a friend to try your Vegetable Medicine. In the course of a few weeks I found myself much better analyty the time I had taken two bottles, considered Medicine. In the course of a few weeks I found myself much better, and by the time I had taken two bottles, considered myself wholly free from the complaint. I continue, on the least feeling of any thing like indigestion or pressure on the stomach, to take about a table spoonful of it, which, in the course of a few hours completely restores me. It has had with me a very wonderful effect, in strengthening the sto nach and progressing the whole system, and induing by my o yn case. I invigorating the whole system, and indging by my own case, I consider it in all diseases connected with the digestive organs It has been found singularly efficacious in cases of the most

TO THE AGE'S SPECEFIQUE FOR SE-tor. The above remedy for the most distrissing di case inci-dent to the human race, o ignated from the enlightened mind of the enime a Le Sage, the promulgation and success of which thooghout the kingdoms of France and Italy, has, of late years, anded such high honors to the already highly hon ored name of the inventor. This composition unites safety with efficacy. And the veneral disease, whether in the form of Gonorrhea' or 'Gleet,'is evadicated by the use of it, with certainty and spacess, and the sufference restored to his with efficacy. And the venereal disease, whether in the form of 'Gonorrhea' or 'Gleet,' is evaduated by the use of ill, with certainty and success, and the sufferer is restored to his usual health, without delay, or inconvenience. Tens of thousands of 'Far stans' will accede to the truth of these remarks, and it is confidently offered to those afflicted, as the best and surest resuely for the above mentioned to this one disorder.

The secret has inthecto been confined to France and Italy.—It is now for the first time introduced by way of 'New Or leans' to the American public, and is sold, in this city, only at No. 48 Ana street, opposite Merchants' Row, near the Market, by E. THAYER, Jr., Druggist.
